LOCAL BREVITIES.

This is election week. And you can't expect many "brevities."

Miss Allie Myers, of Bismarck, was in Ironton Tuesday.

The Principal's letter last week stirred up the school directors.

The saloons were closed all over the county Tuesday, and election passed off quietly. The day was fine, and a fair vote was polled.

Rev. Geo. M. Boulsher, of Piedmont, he services at the Baptist Church here last Sunday.

We are glad to learn that Mr. Jno. Whitworth is rapidly recovering from sickness.

Rev. Jos. Marlatt will preach at the M. Church in Ironton next Sunday, both in morning and evening.

Rumors of a wedding agitated our town early this week, but the feminine heart the Valley was doomed to disappointment. Noobie, how could you?

This portion of the St. Louis & I. M. R. way is very busy now transporting coal. Some three or four "extras" went up today "loaded to the guards."

We regret to learn of the death of Dr. Newberry, which occurred at Fredtown on the 3d inst. To the bereaved husband and relatives we tender our heart sympathies.

As fast as the election returns are received they will be bulletined in front of the election office. The good people of them have made up a purse for the purpose of getting the dispatches.

Married, by Rev. J. C. Berryman, the residence of the bride's father, Oct. 30th, Mr. HENRY S. HOUSE to Miss MARY STEVENSON, all of Iron county. May their life be replete with blessings.

When our Republican friends wanted tickets decently printed in conformity with the law, let them come to the election office. Those cast by them on Tuesday were neither a good job nor legal.

The sidewalk near Reynolds street and the alley in the rear of the Academy intersect it, is badly damaged. Wouldn't it be well to see about their before the winter rains convert a pleasant job into a ten-dollar one?

A killing frost scorched all green things Tuesday morning. The fields anywhere were white as if covered with a light of snow. Housewives whose tender plants were left in exposed places during the night, are bewailing their losses.

Mr. H. N. Hutcheson last Friday paid us with three turnips, weighing all together nearly fifteen pounds. We don't think in this prolific year, Mr. Hutcheson's turnips can be beaten. What do other farmers of the county say?

Mr. F. C. Miller, County Commr., wishes us to say to Clerks of Schools that may not be supplied with blatt that he will send the same on application such material was mailed to the District spring, but some of them seem to have been neglected.

For Justices of the Peace in Area township, the vote is as follows: Iron Dinger, 150; Hancock, 104; Hughes, 79; Dinger's majority, 156. Hancock's majority, 161. For Constable, Patton gets 125 at Ironton, and 79 at Pilot Knob. Cy at Ironton received 60 votes, and at Knob, 57. Patton's majority, 140.

Thomps. Blanton, Esq., yesterday night as one dozen peach-blow potatoes in the aggregate ten pounds. The set were large, fine and smooth—with the set very slightly in. After he had had his wheat—late in June—Mr. B. had in the stubble four and one-half bushels and from them raised fifty-seven bushels which were dug Monday. Who can shatter yield?

Prof. Gustavus Dollfus, of St. Louis is now in Ironton, and will probably have during the winter. He has had a music class of fifteen scholars, and adds to its members as the days roll on. Dr. is a first-class teacher on piano, and vocal music, and comes recommended as such by Messrs. Balmer & Wolfermeyer known on application at once or to the Professor himself.

We yesterday received samples of sorghum molasses made by Hon. A. Holloman, from cane grown by Carro and Achilles Huff, Esqs., of Big Creek. The molasses is a clear, golden color, of a seductive, and entirely lacking in any rank taste of sorghum as generally made. We do not know the species of used, nor the method of manufacture, but we know the articles furnished are not.

The school-teacher in Area is the habit of whipping refractory scholars on their hands. The other day she had the ruler in that manner to the children's ruler, who next morning had a note requesting her to change the application from the hand "to the God has made for that purpose," and to that effect. We think the parents and deals in stern facts; neither should be beaten.

Scotch-wool Suits—custom-made—will be sold this week at from eight to ten dollars. Bonanza. Warranted all-wool Scotch goods.

Choice Canned Goods kept at Chambers' grocery store. Also, Lemons, Oranges, and fruit of all kinds. Give us a call. Goods delivered to any part of town.

BAPTIZING.—Rev. G. M. Boulsher, of the Baptist Church, last Sunday baptized three children—one boy and two girls—of the family of Samuel West, Esq. The ceremony was performed in Stout's Creek near the ridge south of Ironton, and was witnessed by many of our citizens.

Bonanza has just bought the entire stock of Millinery and latest styles of Ladies' Hats and Bonnets belonging to Mme. de Joinville, Fourth street, St. Louis, who is about to return to Europe. These Hats have not been made up fifteen days. Will be sold at half the price they can be bought elsewhere.

Personal.

Mr. A. Gardner, of Crystal City, was in town Monday.

Mrs. Dr. M. Cranston Gideon leaves today for Kansas City.

Mr. Oates, of Illinois, is here on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. C. C. Russell.

Mrs. Brierton, of Iron Mountain, spent Sunday in Ironton, the guest of B. Zwart.

Mrs. Medley, of Hogan Mountain, was in town last Saturday, the guest of Miss Markham.

Mrs. T. R. Goulding and Mrs. Amanda are visiting their many friends and relatives in Fredericktown.

Mrs. Geo. H. Crumb and little Laura Williamson left on Monday for Kremen Mills on a visit to relatives and friends.

Miss Henrietta Lopez, after a delightful visit of several weeks to friends in St. Louis, returned home last Wednesday.

Mrs. Eliza Schultz and her little grandson, Harry Rudy, left last Friday for Farmington on a visit to Squire Rudy's family.

Mr. M. Patton and family will leave here the latter part of this week for West Plains, which place they will make their future home.

Mr. Monroe Whitworth and wife, after a visit of several weeks to relatives in the Valley, left for their home in Fayetteville, Ark., on Monday.

Mr. F. A. Sweger, of Chicago, accompanied by his cousin, Mrs. M. Roberts, of De Soto, spent a couple of days in Ironton last week, the guest of Mr. Geo. H. Crumb.

The Piedmont Banner of last week says: "Mr. D. T. Reese, the gentlemanly and aesthetic clerk of Lopez, Ironton, has been in this place several days taking notes and watching the Piedmont dry goods manipulators."

American Hotel arrivals: Albert Nettling, G. L. Praul, R. P. Crow, H. E. Spear, V. L. Rutherford, Fred. Christianer, H. B. Christian and H. G. Schwartzman, of St. Louis; W. E. Rockwell, A. Cold, of Annapolis, Mo.; A. P. Vance, Pilot Knob; John Schick, Piedmont; F. C. Miller, Pilot Knob.

Millions Given Away.

Millions of bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds have been given away as trial bottles of the large size. This enormous outlay would be disastrous to the proprietors were it not for the rare merit possessed by this wonderful medicine. Call at the Pilot Knob Drug Store and get a trial bottle free, and try for yourself. It never fails to cure.

Do You Want Good Fruit Trees?

If you do, we can give you no better advice than to call on A. K. Sutton, proprietor of the Arcadia Valley Nursery. He has Apples, Pears, Peaches, Cherries, etc., etc., of every variety. Most of the fine fruit grown here this season is from trees taken from his Nursery, which is rapidly acquiring an excellent reputation. The trees grown in this climate are certainly better suited to this section than those imported from a distance, and our people appear to have at length become aware of the fact. We can commend Mr. S. unqualifiedly to every reader of this paper, and his word can be depended upon at all times. Orders by mail for trees from responsible parties will receive prompt attention.

More About Gossip.

Ed. Register.—In your last issue "X," in his communication about "gossip," suggests "culture" as a remedy for that prevalent evil. Now, the question arises in my mind, How are the great masses of women—those who are addicted to that habit—to become cultured? I say women, because there is no excuse for a gossiping man, for he can go out among his fellow men, meet great minds and discuss the weighty questions of political and scientific affairs, and out of business hours he has time for reading and reflection; but a woman has a multitude of cares and duties, which begin at early dawn and are not laid aside at the close of business hours, but she must bear them often for hours after "night has spread her sable pall over all;" and should she find a few moments for reading, she is usually too tired physically to fasten her attention upon anything but light reading, which only rests but does not elevate, and hence her thoughts are confined to her dish-washing, cooking, sweeping, &c., and to her neighbors' affairs as she sees them from her standpoint, and to such ideas as she gathers from her limited reading.

And I tell you, friend "X," and all others who are crying out against gossip, as long as the present system of woman's labor economy exists, we cannot hope for a reformation in that direction.

There was a time when every man was his own blacksmith, carpenter, tiller of his own soil and grinder of his own corn; and he at that time would probably have laughed at the idea if he had been told that in the future every man would have his own trade—that one man would do the smithing, another the carpenter work, &c. So in the future a woman will not be expected to follow forty different callings and trades at once. Her house work will be divided up, and each assigned the part suiting best her inclination and taste; perhaps it will be on the co-operative plan—time will adjust that. And when she advances to that step which gives her a voice in making and executing the laws which govern her, she will adjust matters so that the labor and culture will be more equally divided, and not till then can it be done.

But, in the meantime, O ye "lords of creation," it lies with you to palliate to a certain extent that prevailing evil. When you come home in the evening with your paper fresh from the printers, instead of burying yourself behind its interesting sheets, share it with your tired wife, mother or sister, as the case may be, while she patiently darns your socks or replaces the missing buttons from your garments—read aloud to her, and discuss the various topics of the day with her as you do with your fellow men, and I assure you the result will be entirely satisfactory; her fingers will fly more nimbly, unconscious of the labor they are performing, while the mind will be refreshed and stimulated to seek more knowledge in order that she may keep pace with you, and in this manner you will benefit her in more ways than one. Try it.

The Teachers' Association.

The Association met at 10:30 o'clock A. M., and was opened with prayer by Thomas Calahan.

Mrs. "Oh! Where Are the Reapers," by Miss Almira Greason.

Read and approved the minutes of last meeting.

Mr. Ebaugh read a paper on "Inventive Drawing." He defined it as "The Grammar of Art," and showed its importance in teaching, in developing the connection between the mind and the hand, and in order to invest learning with beauty and pleasure. He then described the steps to be taken in teaching. The paper was canvassed by Misses Greason and Markham, Mrs. Sanford Russell and Messrs. Miller and Calahan.

Mrs. "Our Hearts Are Light," by Miss Greason, Miss Hughes, the Misses Patton and Mr. Ebaugh. The selection was good and the presentation was really grand.

Mrs. Russell read a paper on "Idioms of Language." The definition of the subject was very clear and correct, tracing them to the idea of borrowing expressions from other languages. The essay was full of acute thought well presented, and was requested for publication. It was thoroughly discussed by the Association.

Mrs. "Not Half Has Ever Been Told." Recited until 1 o'clock P. M., at which time Thomas Calahan read a paper on "The Adaptation of the Common School System to Its People."

Mrs. "Hold the College of the People." Discussion of Mr. Calahan's paper followed. It was very fully sustained by the Association.

Mr. Ebaugh illustrated "Civil Government" very accurately and clearly, using diagrams on the blackboard. The work was carried out very ably and instructively, showing that Mr. Ebaugh is well versed in the Constitution of the United States. By tacit understanding the Institute made this exercise a test of Mr. Ebaugh's skill in delineation. Accordingly, explanations were asked and offered and questions raised on all sides. But the result was that Mr. Ebaugh came out of the ordeal with the best skeleton of Civil Government the reporter has ever seen in an Institute.

Mrs. "I'll Stand By You." Mr. A. P. Vance presented a paper on "The Use of Text Books," advocating a judicious selection of text books well used.

Mr. H. C. Davis discussed "Primary Arithmetic," and gave us a good drill and furnished a fund of interesting facts on the elementary rules.

Mrs. "The Bridge." A resolution of hearty thanks was tendered for the music.

The Association adjourned until the first Saturday of December.

The meeting of last Saturday demands a more extended notice than a mere minute of its proceedings; and the public attention should be called more fully to the Association which is now commencing the second year of its existence.

Last year a few talked the thing up, and this year it has set out in a very encouraging shape. It has enrolled nearly thirty members, all of whom are practical teachers.

Last Saturday was the second meeting for this year. The Executive Committee had provided abundance of material in the way of exercises, and the programme made itself.

The first thing to be noticed is the music. It was excellent; and the fact that the performers acquitted themselves so well without previous training to play and sing together, entitles them to very fair standing as musicians. I have heard singing and playing where there was more noise, but rarely where there was more music. The bravura or brass band style was very conspicuously absent from all the selections.

But the music was valuable, as it disclosed a much more extended musical taste among the people of the Valley than had been expected. It is very clear that the members and friends of the Teachers' Association can upon occasion furnish at short notice any required amount of good music, without calling on any church choir or the Ironton Cornet Band. That is a comfortable fact.

The pivotal point of the meeting was in an essay by Mrs. Sanford Russell on "Idioms of Language." It abounded in keen thoughts sharply put; that is, it was idiomatic. It could scarcely have been written by any but one of her people, whose English, as a rule, is as idiomatic as their Hebrew was thirty-seven centuries ago. The essay is a good illustration of the fact that so long as national peculiarities remain, they will give character to any language that may be adopted; so that a good scholar can tell the nationality of a writer by his idioms, for they belong to nations and not individuals.

There was a keen discussion over the essay, in the course of which the distinction between idioms and slang came up. Some were troubled by the fact that terms held to be slang are found in our classical writers. There is a worse difficulty. There are passages in the Hebrew of the Old Testament which if I would interpret literally before the Association, I would expect to be expelled by way of the window. They are idioms of which God alone can form a conception.

Another keen discussion arose over Mr. H. C. Davis' mode of teaching primary arithmetic. Messrs. A. P. Vance and H. C. Davis are excellent practical teachers, and their suggestions are worthy of very close study.

The secret of their success is in their skill in what may be called thought building. They evidently understand that the growth of thought involves all the steps of a judicial process, and teach accordingly. It will pay any teacher well to spend a day in their school.

The meeting was a success, for every one came prepared to make it so.

Died at Iron Mountain.

With feelings of deepest emotion, it becomes my duty to record the death of that saintly, Christian lady, Mrs. JUDITH P. GREEN. She died very suddenly on Saturday evening, October 28th, of dropsy of the heart. During the day she had been feeling about as well as usual, and ate her supper with the family; being in her usual good spirits, talking with the children as cheerfully and pleasantly as none but a mother who loves her family could. A short time after supper, while the folks were sitting around the fire engaged in pleasant converse, she came into the room, took up a paper and began to read. She became very much interested in the paper and read until about nine o'clock, when she laid the paper aside and said, "I'll finish that piece to-morrow." The family had retired for the night, and most of them were asleep, when she screamed and called for help. Mr. Green hurried to her assistance and found her smothering and gasping for breath. Dr. Liggett was immediately called, and upon entering the room pronounced the case hopeless. The grief-stricken husband, together with all the children, now in deep sorrow, gathered around her dying bed. The symptoms were of a very violent character, and continued to grow worse, until relief came in death. She was sick only about forty minutes; and thus, after a life of transcendent devotion to her family, as well of eminent usefulness to others, she sweetly sleeps in the bosom of the blessed Redeemer, waiting the final resurrection and a peaceful rest in immortality.

Mrs. Green was born near Dover, Stewart county, Tennessee, February 24th, 1839, and raised near Mayfield, Kentucky. She was married at the latter place Mr. Jerry D. Green on September 21st, 1856. They lived at the latter place until 1862, when Mr. Green moved to Coloma, Ill. He remained at that place only a few months, when he came to Missouri, and has since lived in Washington and St. Francis counties.

Mrs. Green united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1868, near Caladonia, and has since lived a worthy and exemplary Christian life.

It is said that misfortune never comes single-handed, and how true the saying in this case. It was no longer than a week ago Mr. Green buried his infant son, and now he is called upon to give up his beloved wife, who has loved and cheered him in sickness and health, and has been his comfort and strength in times of trouble and affliction. She leaves a fond husband and ten affectionate children to mourn her untimely demise.

She was buried on last Monday in the graveyard at Ironton, where other members of the family are buried. Rev. Dr. Milster read the burial service, and closed with an earnest and fervent prayer. He read from Revelations VII., from 9th verse to the end of the chapter, and from XXI., from verse 10 to the 7th verse of XXII. chapter, inclusive. The service was ably conducted, and impressed all with the solemn and dreadful reality of death.

In this death the husband has lost a devoted and affectionate wife, the children a fond and loving mother, and society a zealous and useful member. The whole community deeply deplores the loss of so estimable a lady, and the tenderest sympathy is expressed for the bereaved family.

"Farewell, mother! thou art sleeping, As thou never didst before; While the children round thee weeping, We our precious friend deplore."
